A Whig City.

This day a Whig Mayor and Common Council are inducted into office and assume the control of the extensive and multifarious public interests of pittaburgh, and still rising.

Our great City. It is a vast responsibility—one Sales of Flour at Baltimore, Howard brands, $6.75. our great City. It is a vast responsibility—one not to be lightly assumed nor indolently discharged. It has become a current saying that the possession of our City Government is a curse to the party in power. We cannot help thinking that this can be so only because the rule of that party is felt to be a curse to the People. We know there are grievous defects in our City Charter, such as it is. and have carnestly hoped and labored for their amendment. Yet, with the Charter as it is, we cannot doubt that a wise, upright, frugal and vigi- throughout the year on paying of toll was reported lant City Government can make itself felt as a public blessing, and prove a source of strength rather than weakness to the party which elected it. The City of TROY has never, within our recollection, been anything else but Whig-usually all but unanimously so in her Councils, and by a popular majority of 300 to 600 in some 2,000 to 3,000 votes. How has this majority been acquired (it was but 90 in 1828) and so steadily maintained The Annual Financial Report of her Chamberlain. for the year ending March 11 last affords the an-

Troy has been compelled to incur heavy expenses and debts, first to supply herself bountifully with pure Water, and next to preserve or win a liberal portion of the trade and travel of the West means of a Railroad to Schenectady. Her Water-Works cost her $125,000; her Railroad about $700,000; her entire Debt was not long since $800,000, drawing an annual interest of over $50,000--a great burden to rest on a population of less (in 1840) than 20,000, whose entire Property was valued at Five and a Half Millions. Yet, in the face of this, Troy has established and maintained a Sinking Fund, paid her Interest regularly. reduced her entire Debt to $711,790, and is cutting down the principal at the rate of about $25,000 a year. The actual payment of Principal during the last five years has been $204,795; but a part of this has been paid by borrowing. Yet at the present rate of payment, since the amount payable for Interest will be steadily decreasing every year, the entire Principal will be paid off within the ensuing twenty years, without an increase of taxation ; indeed, the rate per cent, may be steadily and great ly diminished as the Valuation of Property increases. As that has more than doubled within the last twenty years, the per centage of taxation need be but half as high twenty years hence as now, although the City should be paying as large an annual sum on account of her Debt (more than twice as much for Principal) as at present.

How have these results been attained in Troy As they only can be anywhere-By low salaries and rigid economy. The Mayor is paid a salary of $200 per annum, and his contingent expenses for Postage, &c. are $6 more. The High Constable's salary is also $200; the City Clerk's salary and reports' cost $429; the Chamberlain (who performs the duties of our Controller in addition to those of Chamberlain or Sub Treasurer) has $591. The cost of Lighting the City is $1,573; of Night Watch $3,705; of the Fire Department $1,951; and has vexed and is vexing that island. year, including Watch, Poor, Schools, Streets. Lighting, 8417 for Interest on City Debt proper, and | suffering Irish. $2,619 for 'Navigation'-that is, for dredging out the bed of the Hudson, so as to keep open the navigation to Albany-was $22,230, or a little less than dollar a head for the present population. There is an actual reduction of expense, as compared with that of last year, on nearly all the leading items, except that of supporting the Poor, which the high prices of Provisions and Fuel have somewhat increased.

-Ought not these facts to be considered by the new rulers to whose charge our City has just been confided? Everything depends on their condescending to make small savings where they can : if these are overlooked, it will be found nearly impossible to make greater. Only let it be settled at the outset that a saving of even a hundred dollars is not to be despised nor postponed to the rewarding of any partisan or favorite, and all will work

LIEUT. HUNTER -- In relation to an article that appeared in Saturday's Tribune upon the surrender of Alvarado to Lieut. Hunter, the Courier & Enquirer says: "The ignorance of the writer is only equaled by the radical spirit which dictated the ment:" and we might answer with as much truth-"The impudence of the writer (of the Courier) is only equaled by the habitual spirit which dictates his editorials." But we forbear to engage with the Courier & Enquirer in a war of vulgar personalities, for which we are much less qualified, as well from want of talent

The writer of the article in The Tribune was mistaken in supposing that the power to order Court Martials was ed to the Secretary of the Navy: on the contrary, it is a power often exercised and as often abused

Christ and the influences of the Holy Spiril, and without hope in the future. He portrayed Christ's sufferings for the sins of mankind, and quoted many Scripture promises, such as that the heathen are to be given to Christ for an inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the carth for fils possession, sacribing these coming changes to the efficacy of the divine Word, in those days when the nations shall learn war no more, and a millenial era succeed to a less pure and Apostolic age.

In his opinion, Legislation and Commerce might do much for mankind, but could not prove a cure for moral evel—nor could Science: the influences connected with Divine truth, as exhibited in the Holy Bible, were the only means which could renovate the human heart and bring the soul to God. The Bible was the only hope of the nations, and they slumber for want of it. How long, he asked, would it be so!

His great object seemed to be to impress upon men's minds the importance of circulating the Bible everywhere, which he considered the great light required for benighted lands.

Evangelical Alliance.

A meeting for the purpose of setting the charac-ter and claims of this institution before the public, was beld last evening at Dr. Skinner's Church in Mercer at, according to appointment. It had been intended to defer it till after the final organization of the Alliance which is to take place this morning at 10 o'clock, but as the other evenings of the week are occupied by other meetings it was necessary to anticipate a little and to commend the Alliance to the favor of Evangelical Christians before it was fully brought into existence. The meeting was not so large a one as we expected to see there being only some 400 persons present. After singing, prayer and reading the Scriptures, followed the addresses of the evening.

meeting was not so large a one as we expected to see there being only some 400 persons present. After singing, prayer and reading the Scriptures, followed the addresses of the evening.

Dr. Cox regretted with others that there was not a larger number of persons present. The learned speaker went on to speak of the ussential unity of the Church and of the divisions that still rent her bosom. He would ask the sudience if they had never felt wounded as they looked upon the Church and saw how the stumbling blocks abounded, and how they itung upon the charlot wheels of salvation. Some of those on the platform had enjoyed the happiness of being present at those gorious meetings in London, and he hoped they should never forget it either in this life or in the next. At those meetings was formed the Catholic Evangelical Alliance of the Communion of Saints. Dr. Cox then spoke of the objections which had been brought against the Alliance and criticised with great severity the usual course of thought and action in this country in regard to sectarianism. Speaking of those new born philosophers who oppugned the Alliance on the ground that Union could not, in itself, be an end, he would let those he had almost said shallow Protestants know, that since the time of Luther, nothing bad eccasioned such slarm to Papal Rome, as the Chumenical, Evangelical Alliance. He thought that there might be as much thunder in the Alliance as there was in Cromwell, if homogeneous Christians would only come together in it. He would remark that in organizing one of the greatest difficulties that had met them on the threshold, was the subject to Slavery. He could not then go into such a subject, but he would say that their labors during the week, had ultimated in something which would render the work of organization pleasant and easy. The Rev. gentleman concluded with an allusion to Ireland, of which we did not each the point, and with an appeal to the audience long, as any regard to it. He set forth the necessity of Christian Union. He should not

The Government of the Island has done all in its power for the needy and destitute; but all was necessarily little; for the Government itself is poor.

He stood a practical illustration of the fact that the sailor could be reformed and saved, and that the efforts for seamen had not been in vain. From the age of twelve years he had been on the sea. He had sought pleasure in all lands, and, like Noah's dove, had found a restingualese until in 1840. In Section one Sunday, the

He had had much experience with sailors, fand had found them susceptible to religious influences. The word "mother" had brought tears to the eyes of a friend whom he was consequently enabled to save. He himself was a proof of what could be done by religion, and of what the Society is doing for the sailor. Every sailor, when converted, became a preacher and distributor of tracts. He had known many of them to buy tracts in the language of the people of the country to which they were going, and to distribute them in the rum shops—and had known one sailor to convert a Roman Catholle priest, who had tried to dissende the former from reading the Rible. No language can describe the influence of the ten thousand plous seamen. The sea is speaking in a language not to be misunderstood.

ture is somewhat shaded by reports of past contagious and fitted sicknesses. At the conclusion of the foregoing proceedings, Mr. Kerchur made a few remarks, to the effect that this institution is entirely dependent on the public for support—and that it is entirely an association of isdies willing to devote their time and attention (and they do it most assiduously) to the project they have undertaken. They are ladies, said the speaker, who have heads as well as hearts, and are thankful to take what they can get and to do the most good with what they have. What continued Mr. K. would these children have been if left in the condition in which most of them were found. Not a third of them would have been visible to our eye those would doubtless have sunk to their graves, who are now rescued by these benevolent ladies, washed and a thra of them would ave been value to our eye those would doubtless have sunk to their graves, who are now rescued by these benevolent ladies, washed and riothed, fed and pravided with a comfortable home.—

Those who feel an interest in this matter can visit the lastitution and satisfy themselves.

The effects of such exhibitions and the agitation of such questions—differ on different persons—one man is for freeing all, and another advocates perpetual Slavery, but this institution, said the speaker, admits of ho such feelings,—its Managers feed the helpless children whom they find destitute, sick, without any to help them, and in the feeding of humanity they take them up and take care of them. It is an authentic fact that a Southern gentleman—a slaveholder—after visiting this institution and some of its exhibitions, some years since, was so greatly influenced by what he witnessed, that on returning, nearly his first act was to manager all his slares. Now the managers did not ask him to do that—but doubtless they were very glad of it!

The speaker's observations were well received by the densely crowded, and the proceedings were deeply interesting.

Hon. Wh. T. McCoun. President of the Society, on taking the Chair, congratulated the meeting on the progress of the cause and the signs of its ultimate triumph. Rev. T. L. Harris was the first speaker. He maiptained that the cause in which the Society was engaged was founded in everlasting Truth, and must be crowned with success. This idea he dwelt upon at considerable length, and with his usual energy. He was followed by Horace Gerrier, who spoke of the present state of public opinion in reference to the gallows, as a proof that the cause of reform had made decided progress and would triumph sconer or later, according as its advocates should prove faithful or otherwise. Every enterprise which looked to a change so important as that proposed by this Society must of course encounter a powerful resistance, and for a long time must depend for its support upon a few. The majority of the thinking, reflecting portion of the community he believed were already convinced that Capital Punishment was wrong, but the mass of the people had given little attention to the subject, while the instinct of revenge was strong. Go set into the haunts of vice, and nearly everyhody would be found favorable to hanging. Though our mestings were often held within a stone's throw of the most vicious neighborhoods of this City, it was rare that the inhabitant of such neighborhoods attended them. A public execution would attract them in crowds. It was only by patient, unremitting labor that the cause could be expected to succeed, and for such labor there was abundant encouragement.

Rev. WILLIAM H. CHANNING followed Mr. Greeiey in a speech of great force and beauty, in which he dwelt principally on the argument of the Injustice of Society's taking Human Life, because somebody else may have done so. One class, he contended, who are likely to become murderers, are thrown out upon the world at a tender age, uncared for, unthought of, and they grow up in rags and wetchedness to manh

There is another class who are brought up in an entirely different sphere—who have the benefits of education and refined society; but stung to madness by some wrong done to themselves, wife, sister or friend, for which the law furnishes no redress, they too resort to brute force to avenge their wrongs. The simple law of Justice, which is the law of Love, or Christianity, is alone competent to eradicate all these evils.

Mr. Channing also contended with great earnestness, and we think conclusively proved, that the safety of Society does not require the taking of life.

The Annual Report was next read by Rev. WM. S. Balcis. It showed that the Society had labored during the past year with a good degree of efficiency and success.

Judge Lawis of Lancaster, Pa. was then introduced e as a lawyer and a Judge, showing the pernicious nence of the death penalty, particularly in screening the guilty.

Mr. Stranno of Connecticut made a few remarks after which the meeting adjourned.

Broadway and Grand-st. this evening.—We were formerly prejudiced against Dr. H. believing that his Lectures were calculated rather to gratify a prurient curiosity than to impart useful knowledge. The testimony of very many of his auditors, however, including some of the purest and wisest among those we know, has satisfied us that we were mistaken, and we now believe that many must be profited by his inculcations, while none can find food therein for a victious sensuality.

Association.—The final Lecture of the Course on Association will be given this evening at the Lyceum by William Henny Channing—Subject, Universal Unity. This morning at 10 o'clock the American Union of Association stability. This morning at 10 o'clock the American Union of Association is hold a meeting for the transaction of business, which will not be open to the public at large. To-morrow evening the Union will probably hold a public meeting at the same place, the Lyceum.

The Bar Nomination.—We understand that the Committee formed by a meeting of certain Members of the Bar of our City have agreed to report to the adjourned meeting to day the following names for Judges of the Sunrame Correct.

Fire in Maysville, Ky.—A very destructive fire occurred in Maysville about daylight an the morning of 4th inst. The principal suferers were Messrs. P. R. Jones, cabinet-makers; Rickells & Straley, trunk and harness manufacturers; Mrs. Burgess, boarding-house; Mr. Franklin, in hemp and boding apparatus; Martin & Vanderburgh. Mr. Martin's loss in money is upward of ten thousand dollars, a legacy just received from Switzeriand, which was in a trunk not gotten out of the building. John Brogee, confectioner; (Mr. B. s loss is principally in the destruction of furniture and store fixings—the house he occupied was not destroyed though on fire several times.) Drs. The preacher contemplated a state of things under which we would behold a world held together by the morality of the Ribbe; but considered that the Bible would exert yet higher influences, by bringing the sinner to the foot of the Cross. He displayed the picture of a people without the Bible, without God, without Christ and the influences of the Holy Spirit, and without hope in the lature. He portrayed Christ's sufference for the sins of mankind, and quoted many Scripture.
